

HARBOUR PREVENTIONS SERVICE

Information sheet for referrers

Harbour work with people identified as using violence and abuse in relationships.

This service is open to male, female or non binary service users

WHAT WE OFFER

We will work in a one to one setting with people identified as using violence and/or abuse and who are wanting to address these behaviours.

We cover a range of topics which will be discussed with the service user through an initial assessment.

Some of the possible topics to be discussed and worked on could be jealousy, intimidation, understanding coercive control, respectful parenting, plus many more areas.

We can work with service users face to face or remotely.

HOW DO I REFER

If you have a service user that you feel would benefit from completing this work - please fill in a referral form and email this to referrals@myharbour.org.uk

If you would like to discuss whether someone would be suitable prior to a referral being submitted, please contact the Harbour workers involved with the project and they will be able to offer advice or support. They will be available at Quadrant East to have these discussions.

They will also be available to attend a joint visit to talk about the service to a possible service user.
